No mere moral power in this country has been stronger in times past than party feeling; it has resembled the clanship of earlier states of society; men have given fortune, reputation, and ceaseless and unsparing efforts to the cause of their political party; nevertheless, the popular attachment to the Union has been strong er than party; and confidence in its stabili ty, even in times of almost partizan madness, has risen above all considerations of interest, all social and domestic affections, all political claims and influences, until it has reached the dignity of an undying virtue. There are men who, forgetting the strength of this instinct of nationalty, have at intervals in the war dismally prophesied our de feat because of our party rancors and dissensions. The pastoral relation which has existed between Rev. D. Stevenson and the Methodist congregation in this city, for the past year, has been dissolved. He has been one of the most faithful of ministers-earnestly devoted to the Master's work in this city. During his brief stay in our midst he has secured the confidence and esteem, not only of his church, but of the whole community. Having been elected to the laborious and responsible duties of Superintendent of Public Instruction, the church may for a time lose somewhat of his labors and influence, but the State, the cause of education, and, of consequence, the cause of Christianity and moral. ity, will be advanced. Mr. S., having been a practical teacher in one of the leading colleges in the West, his experience added to his well-known industry and earnestness in whatever cause he engages, will, in an eminent degree, qualify him for the duties of his office. He is succeeded, as Pastor, by the Rev. S. L. Robertson, who, thus far, has made a most favorable impression upon his congregation and those of our citizens who have had an opportunity of forming his acquaintance. He has entered upon his Journal says that Mr. John Ingle, Sr., postwork in our midst with the proper zeal, and master at Saunderville, Ind., for the last should receive, as he deserves, the earnest forty years, wrote to the third Assistant a should receive, as he deserves, the earnest few days ago asking a settlement of his the afternoon, Bettie, daughter of the Hon.
